

Kumagae Retains State Tennis Title

Two Japanese Make History In Final Round on Utica Court

Play Is Marked by an Amazing, Almost Mechanical Accuracy

By Fred Hawthorne

UTICA, N. Y., July 21.—After more than two hours and a half of a grueling struggle under a sun that beat down on the clay courts with pitiless density, Ichihya Kumagae, of Japan, the defending champion, defeated Seiichiro Keshio, also of Japan, in the challenge round of the New York State championship lawn tennis tournament on the clay courts of the Yahnundasis Golf Club this afternoon.

In the fight to retain his title Kumagae was forced to four long drawn out sets at 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 9-7, in which there were seventeen deuce games. The rallies from deep court were so protracted and there was so little of the rushing, smashing style of play that we in this country have come to regard as an essential accompaniment to championship tennis that the interest of the large gallery wanted somewhat after the third set, and when Miss Molla Bjurstedt, national woman champion, began an exhibition match with Harold Taylor, of Brooklyn, the former Metropolitan junior champion, in a nearby court, there followed a general movement to the other court by the spectators, anxious to see the wonderful Norse girl perform.

Miss Bjurstedt was defeated at 7-5, 7-3, but the meteoric, hard-hitting game that she played and the manner in which she raced about the court after Taylor's shots brought enthusiastic applause from the gallery.

Challenge Round Remarkable Yet there were remarkable features about the challenge round match between Kumagae and Keshio. Here were two Japanese players meeting in a challenge round match to decide one of the important titles on American courts. Such a thing had never happened before in the history of the game in this country, and may never be again, yet Keshio had arrived at the high position gained by going through a strong field of American players until he finally faced his countryman from the Far East in the decisive test.

Neither Kumagae nor Keshio possesses a single stroke that is executed in the generally accepted manner supposed by critics to be indispensable to the best form, but here they were, contesting between themselves for the championship. What was the secret that enabled these two little men from the other side of the Pacific to meet in the challenge round? Accuracy—almost mechanical accuracy—and tireless court covering under a burning sun.

Unless some man like Robert Lindbergh, of California; William T. Tilden, 20, of Philadelphia; Frederick Alexander, or Charles S. Garland, of Pittsburgh; or the champion of the national championship tournament at Forest Hills next month prepared to give battle to Kumagae and Keshio it is beyond the bound of possibility that the blue ribbon of American tennis will be claimed by a native of Japan.

Finalists Much Alike

Kumagae and his challenger took the court about 4 o'clock, bowing and smiling the way through the lines of spectators gathered about the championship stretch of clay. Both are about the same height, although Kumagae is far sturdier in build and has a more distinguished character than the other. Keshio is a character of the type that the champion is left handed. Otherwise they might well have been twins, even their styles of play being similar to a remarkable degree.

Both Ichihya and Seiichiro wore heavy golf caps throughout the match, both rarely spoke while playing and both showed a marked affection for the water, coming down to the net to get the fluid in the course of the four sets. Edwin Fuller Torrey, secretary of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association and chairman of the local tournament committee, to whose efforts the great success of the tournament was due, climbed into the high imperial chair, the linesmen took their appointed places and the match began with Kumagae starting the service.

Challenger Wins First

The champion lost the first two games, after both had reached deuce several times. Keshio placed low, flying drives, both fore and backhand, down the side lines with astonishing accuracy of placement. Kumagae hung in the back of his court, apparently well satisfied to meet Keshio at the latter's own style of play, but when he discovered that the challenger was guilty of errors he began to go to the net, intent upon finishing off the points with volleying.

He was fairly successful at this and brought the games to 4-1, but Keshio was hitting the lines in deadly fashion, kept catching the champion with beautiful passing shots as Kumagae attempted to cut the ball off on the full. Keshio won the eighth game after a long rally from the base line, dropped the ninth when Kumagae charged to the net and smothered his returns, and then won the tenth, giving him the first set at 6-4.

Again the champion started the ser-

HERE is Ichihya Kumagae in action. He successfully defended his possession of the New York State tennis championship yesterday at Utica. His home is in Japan, as is also that of his late challenger, Seiichiro Keshio. The most striking feature of their match yesterday was the lack of the usual thrilling moments in title contests. The two Nipponese played with a remarkable steadiness and an amazing, almost perfect, accuracy.

vice in the second set and began playing with renewed ambition and added speed. He was "stroking" the ball harder and his persistent attack at the net was something entirely new to those who had last seen him in this country in 1916, when he rarely went to the barrier.

Very quickly Kumagae ran into a lead of 4-1 on games. Keshio took the next and then the champion won the last two for the set at 6-2, squaring the match.

Kashio, who had been fitting about his court at a mercurial pace as he raced after Kumagae's returns, looked as though a rest would be a welcome thing to him. The champion was still the silent, smiling, little Oriental who had begun the match.

The challenger tricked Kumagae into playing the soft game during the first part of the third set, with the result that Kumagae trailed at 1-3 before he awoke to the fact that he must swing into a more dashing style of attack if Keshio were to be headed off. Once more he began rushing to the net, volleying fore and backhand, and the challenger was surprised the gallery, and took the first five games in a row, for the third set at 6-3, and a lead for the first time in the match.

Silent Game Renewed Following the seven-minute rest interval between the third and fourth sets, champion and challenger came forth from the clubhouse and began once more the tireless court covering, the accurate placing, and the silent struggle that had distinguished the first three sets.

Kashio knew that he must make his bid for victory then or never, and he traded drive for drive with the champion, and occasionally went to the net to take Kumagae's returns on the volley. His most effective shot at such times was a peculiar flat backhand that he hit straight down the side lines, through the smallest of openings.

The games went steadily to the champion at first until he led at 3-1. Then Keshio, hitting desperately hard, brought the score to 6-4 in his favor and to 7-4, only to have Kumagae take the set by winning the last two games, the match and the second winning of the McLaughlin Bowl.

Wednesday Minkmar, the only New York horse that won in the meeting last year, will face Mary MacGowan, owned by Richard Deafield, and which has stepped a trial heat in 2:09. The entire proceeds of the three days' meeting will be used to help the needy families of enlisted men.

Brooklyn Wins Fourth Straight Game From Chicago, 6-3

By A. C. Cavanaugh

CHICAGO, July 21.—The Brooklyn Dodgers turned in another surprise when they defeated the Chicago Cubs here to-day by a score of 6 to 3. One of the season's biggest crowds was on hand to see the local nine bow to the visitors for the fourth day in succession.

A free for all batting fest, with the Dodgers showing the way, featured the contest. Each team had to call upon a relief pitcher early, with the Brooklyn rescuer showing the more effective pitching. Zach Wheat continued his hard hitting of the ball, and with four hits to his credit, two of which were doubles, accounted for the greater number of Brooklyn's runs.

Lefty Tyler, the local twirler, who started, was sent to cover early by Brooklyn, which collected a total of nine hits in less than five innings. Nick Carter attempted to stem the tide, but the Dodgers batsmen managed to overpower him, and he was relieved by St. Christopher Club following with 14 points, while in order were the Alpha Physical Culture Club and Morningside Athletic Club, with 10 each.

The entry list today mustered 300 mark, and with thirty clubs contending for the team honors all records for previous junior meetings were broken. As was expected, no records were broken, as the K. of C. committee put the track in exceptionally good shape, and his lone was responsible for the fast times.

Not only did the Paulist boys win the team title, but they also captured the majority of the championships. Fourteen titles were distributed, and of this number, three went to representatives of the Paulist team.

An unexpected surprise was the victory scored by little Eddie Hosmer, when this sixteen-year-old boy beat many older rivals. Hosmer's victory can be more appreciated because he came through in a longer race dash, running this in the century dash.

Hosmer used his surplus speed, and in the final fifteen yards, when he came on from third to first place, to win by several feet. W. H. Branch, Jersey City, was second, and Fred L. Taylor, a clubmate of Hosmer, was third. Teschner was ill throughout the afternoon, but was on hand to help his club.

Teschner's inability to display a strong finishing sprint, due undoubtedly to his condition, cost him the 100-yard title. Teschner led his rivals up to the 90-yard mark, when he began to falter, and the Alpha Physical Culture Club, making up much ground in bounds and leaps, nipped Teschner near the finish, to win by inches.

The only other championship won by Harry Wiger, a Paulist runner, who won looking behind.

The Connellan mile, the principal event of the special attractions, resulted in a Paulist victory for William Gordon, the Peham Bay Naval Training Station captain. Gordon was in splendid form and was an easy winner.

Freddie Jones, who was second, and other opponents fell into his trap. The sailor was a ways among the leaders and when Eddie Mayo, of Fort Slocum, came along, he gave a fast pace, Gordon gave fight, Mayo did not quit, however, and followed his sailor rival until the head of the finishing stretch, when Jack R. Sellers, of the New York Athletic Club, 1915, captured the mile.

A finish that found the first three athletes home only inches apart. Sellers was second, and Mayo was third. Mayo was a ways among the leaders and when Eddie Mayo, of Fort Slocum, came along, he gave a fast pace, Gordon gave fight, Mayo did not quit, however, and followed his sailor rival until the head of the finishing stretch, when Jack R. Sellers, of the New York Athletic Club, 1915, captured the mile.

As the javelin throwers were practicing with the long stick, the missile hit Gerald Norman, chairman of the local committee, in the left foot. The injury was not serious, but the examination at St. John's Hospital, it was discovered that it was not of a serious nature.

The University Heights Tennis Club assumed the lead in the Metropolitan Association team championship series in defeating the New York Lawn Tennis Club in a series of matches on the former's courts yesterday by 5 to 4.

The issue remained in doubt until the doubles, when Edward J. Clapp and Empire players victory by defeating Frank Oliver and Allan Behr, the decisive match.

The majority of the matches were decided in two straight sets, although a number of sets went to deuce. Vincent Richards, the national boy champion, made a comeback on the courts after his enforced absence of several months on account of an operation for appendicitis. He met defeat in the singles at the hands of Frank Oliver, but he triumphed in the doubles, when, with John Whyte, the pair won two straight sets.

Winged P Stars Make Total of 27 Points in "Met" Carnival

By A. C. Cavanaugh

That athletic sports should be encouraged during these times was manifested in the immense crowd of ten thousand persons that attended the junior track and field championships of the Metropolitan Association, which were held at Celtic Park, Long Island City, yesterday. The contests were promoted by the Long Island Chapter of the Knights of Columbus in aid of its hospital bed fund and employment bureau.

Within the short space of eight days the athletes of the Paulist Athletic Club have demonstrated that they possess the athletic prowess of the local district in capturing the team honors. The Winged P boys collected a total of 27 points, victory being turned in by Max Holland, the distance runner, who captured the three-mile title race, which was the final track event on the program.

In second place came the Glenoe Athletic Club, which gave the Paulist contingent a stiff fight in the races on the track. The Glenoe men gathered 23 points, and for the greater part of the meet showed the way until the 100-yard dash, when they were defeated by St. Christopher Club following with 14 points, while in order were the Alpha Physical Culture Club and Morningside Athletic Club, with 10 each.

Kings County Tennis Experts Are Victorious

By C. E. T. Scharps

Triumph Over County Tennis Club Stars, 5 Matches to 2

In a series that brought out unusually hard playing the Kings County Tennis Club defeated the County Tennis Club of Westchester in a Metropolitan Association championship team tournament match at the former's club yesterday by 5 matches to 2. The Kings County representatives won four of the singles and returned themselves the winners by taking one of the three doubles matches.

Charles Chambers, the Kings County captain, was a busy man, winning his singles, and with A. Mollenhauer as a partner captured a doubles match over George A. Walker and R. C. Bryan, Westchester, by the score of 7-5, 3-6, 6-0. The Westchester men were totally unable to stem the terrific drive and superior all-round playing of Chambers and Mollenhauer, who failed to give them a game.

There is no condition in which times are subjected to more air pressure variations than in racing on our speedways. Yet even on the hottest days the terrific hundred mile grinds of the race tracks, with their record times, do not cause times to blow out. And there is certainly no condition in ordinary driving that even approximates those of the speedway.

There is no question that motorists will profit by keeping tire air pressures up, no matter what the heat conditions.
